The relay controlled PSTN auto-dialer adds an additional level of alert notification.

- Can set a pre-recorded message
- Has a built-in audible alarm
- Can dial out while running on battery power

The PSTN Autodialer provides a monitoring unit equipped with relay outputs and connected to a standard telephone line, the PSTN Autodialer can be programmed to call up to nine different phone numbers and play a pre-recorded message to each person who answers, until one of them acknowledges the message by pressing the * or the # key on their phone. The unit can even be programmed to play one of two different messages, depending on which trigger input is activated, and to only call certain numbers for one trigger vs. another. It also has a built-in audible alarm, and is able to dial out while running on battery power.

Compatible with any environmental monitor equipped with dry-contact relay outputs, such as the Watchdog 100. Note that a PSTN land-line is required for proper operation; the dialer is not compatible with office-phone systems that require additional steps, such as dialing "9" and waiting for a second dial tone, to access an outside line.

Auto-dialers add an additional level of alert notification by dialing pre-programmed phone numbers.
